Role and Purposes
- To enable students to approach Human Resource Management in a systematic manner and to recognize its importance for strategic management;
- To enable students to reflect and where appropriate, modify policies and practices internal to the organization with reference to pressures from external institutions;
- To help students to come to term with the complex nature of the employment relationship and how the interlocking tasks of Human Resource Management respond to changes which occur over time in individual employees and the workforce as a whole.

Subject Learning Outcomes
Upon completion of the subject, students will be able to:
- have a better understanding of the latest relevant theories, practices and functional activities of human resource management;
- think critically about key issues of the subject;
- employ some of the HRM theories and models to diagnose the practical problems in the workplace and come up with proper solutions to deal with these problems;
- synthesize and digest new ideas, discoveries, and cutting-edge HRM theories from various sources, such as academic journals, popular management books, and professional management magazines;
- develop key skills needed for professional success, including skills of interpersonal communication, teamwork, problem solving, and oral and written presentation.
